AMERICAN OFFICER

Major Hennisee Writes Interest ingly from Placetas, to a Friend in Wheeling.

BELIEVES CUBANS CAPABLE

Of Self Government, but Fear the Influental Classes Will Control Affairs.

The following letter was written to a friend in Wheeling by Major Hennisee, whom many people will pleasantly re-member as the recruiting officer stationed here last summer: PLACETAS, Cuba, Sept. 17.

PLACETAS, Cubs. Sept. 17.

Sir:—Your kind note was received by be in due season. Many thanks for the information which it contained.

Mrs. H. said it was as healthy in Cubs for her as it was for me, so we left New York on August 9, on the United States transport Burnside, a ship of 1.500 tons, captured from Spain and fitted out by the United States transport as a transport at a cost of 390,000. We all got on our sea-sickness about the third day, and luckly so, for we were caught off Georgia in the huricane that did so much damage in Puerto Rico. We were three nights and three days endeavoring to keep the same locality as near as possible, all in the saloon, lying on the floor, for it was impossible to stay in a bunk in our stateroom, on the upper deck. We were badly tossed about; would occasionally get something to eat in a tea-cup and made the best of it possible. Hardly any person on board escaped severe fulls, one which surt my right ribs and the other which burt my right shoulder. At the end of the storm we were completely worn out; no passenger on board wanted to own a steam yacht or whistle the "Georgia Camp Meeting" for three days.

After the storm we had two days of fine weather to get the kinks out of fine weather to get the kinks out of the weather to get the kinks out of the man of the state of the st

"Down Abispo and Up O'Reilly" governs the drivers in Havana. The streets are probably twenty feet wide, with a two foot wide sidewalk on each side. Abispo is a fair retail street. O'Reilly is a fraud; regular fake dealers keep the stores there.

Along the railroads that I have traveled there is any quantity of fine stass going to waste for the want of cattle to eat it. The war used up the cattle and barn yard fowls, and there is pressing necessity that these should be replaced. This is now being done; frequently ships arrive with 2,000 or 2,000 herd of cattle on board.

The rainy season has not occurred yet; has been so dry that the corn crop is good. We have had some good rains recently, and it is supposed the downpour will occur in Octoba: and November, but that is after the usual rainy season.

pour will occur in Octoba: and November, but that is after the usual rainy season.

American money is worth 110 in Spanish silver. There is a strong tendency to go straight to our currency, because the people with money that it is only a question of time when an American dollar will be worth 200 in Spanish silver.

The principal crops in Cuba are sugar and tobseco. Within twenty miles of this place there are nine sugar mills in working order and three estates with the mills burnt. Each estate, or rather mill, has about 2,000 acres of cane land. The grinding lasts about three months. Only about che-half crop of sugar will be raised this year, but next year it is probable that all the mills will be running to full capacity. A considerable quantity of English capital is going into sugar estates here. I am told that a mill near Clenfuegos once turned out 109,000 tons of sugar in a year. It requires a great deal of capital to raise sugar, and the small farmers, on that account, raise tobacco, which brings quicker returns. Just back of our house, seventy-five yards distant, are two tobacco during houses. Each has 450 people at work, stripping, assorting and packing the tobacco for shipment. It is put up in hales about 30x30x30, and covered with the back of the palm, a hale weighs about 160 pounds. The flat, thin tough bark makes sin excellent covering, and the bales are packed as neatly as a druggist would wrap up a package of medicine. One would hardly believe that such a neat covering of bark could be put on.

that such a neat covering of bark could be put on.

The sum is hot here, but it is always comfortable in the shade. I suffered more inconvenience from heat in Wheeling than I have down here. We have had no high winds since I have been here, but there is generally a comfortable breeze going. Out of the breeze it is quifte warm, but everybody practically lives in the open air, no glass in the windows and shutters all open, except when it rains or the wind is too strong.

cept when it rains or the wind is too strong.

There are very few cases of sickness-here that are due to climate. Among the 200 soldiers here are three cases of maintal fever, all slight and doing well; one case of tyhold fever on the road to recovery; one appendicits and several other cases.

I have better health here than I had in Wheeling, and I can eat and drink here what I could not in Wheeling. The country, people and climate remind me of my service in Texas, on the lower Rio Grande fifteen years ago. The people are polite and agreeable, and give no trouble. They compare very favorably with the people of lower Texas.

Texas. Cuban transportation means a big cart and a little mule to it. In Majan-the cobbie stores, and the creaking of the axies make more than enough noise.

Ploving is done by oxen, hitched to a piece of wood, with a tongue and handle attached, from shod on the point, the same style as is used in Mexico. New Mexico and along the Rio Grunde. I don't think the point of the plow stirs, the ground more I han a lines deep. The oxen move alowly, and the diver and plowmen seem in no hurry.

Many Cubans here are simployed by the government in Duilding barrates for the troops, and in improving, the roads, ditches and sanitary conditions of the island. At first they could not work more than two of three days perweek; now they are better fed, set regular employment and regular food and work six days per week without getting sick. Our thoops, at Santless complained that the Cubans were worthless as allies, and showed no interest in helpling to gain their own, independence. The fact is they were weakened by starvation, and not capable of much exertion.

There are many poor people hers, but mose are suffering for food. The government is to said rations to a community about thirty-two miles from here, in a few days, and investigate their further needs. They have very lately asked for assistance through the mayor of Trinidad, on the south coast. While in Texas I saw more poverty along the Rio Grands than I have seen here. At one time there was but little rain for three years; the people. (Mexicans), became very poor and very much discouraged, but no help was asked or given. The land here is generally owned by Spanlards. The priests and church are Spanlah through and through. It seems to have been the oustoms for as far back as the Spanlah of the church to impose upon the people. When Cuba is independent, when the poop vois &s well as the rich, the people will findurally want to even up well the and in out the surprised if customs for as far back as the Spanish records go for the Spanish officials and the church to impose upon the people. When Cuba is independent, when the poor vote as well as the rich, the people will naturally want to even up welath, and I would not be surprised if the dand owners and the church get the worst of it. The people here complained of Spanish oppression, but from fores of habit or from custom they are inclined to continue the same things that they considered oppression when the Spaniards ruled.

There will be a great deal of friction zimong the people when Cuba becomes a republic. Just how they will succeed is difficult to tell, but I consider them capable of self-government. The controlling minds are all Spanish, and no progressive zovernment can be expected from them. Such people want anexation to the United States, fearing the common people, white or black, but it is thought that the common people, or rather the poor people, who own to land and but little property of any description, want a republic. The infuential Spaniards here are fine schemers; they would pass muster in New York or Paris, and it is probable that they will control the politics of the Island. even though the voter on the opposite side may be more numerous. I confess that I am not able to decide in my own mind just what will be tha permanent government of the Island. If Cuba becames a republic property here will not have much protection, because the majority of the people think that it has been acquired under unjust and unfair Spanish laws.

The ten-years' war was started by the rich native Cuban planters; it did not under unjust and unfair Spanish laws.

The ten-years' war was started by the rich native Cuban planiers: it did not succeed, and the land passed into the possession of the Spaniards. I am informed largely through confincation by the government. The last war was started by the poor people: it resulted in success, and they will claim the advantage that is due them. but I don't think they are well enough organized to obtain the advantage.

I expect to go to Maianzas again about the last of the month, to complete the trial of an officer. I was, after the examining board, adjourned, a member of a general court-martial, which adjourned to wait for the arrival of a witness from the states.

Mrs. Hennises joins me in sending to you and your family and all of our riends in Wheeling the kindest regards and best wishes.

Yours very sincerely,

Yours very sincerely, A. G. HENNISEE.
